$40.00 Wardrobe Folding Bed, $27.50.

Solid polished oak, hand-carved - 40x18 French plate bevel mirror - perfect springs - excellently made and finished.

Just one instance of our bargains in Folding Beds. Maybe this is a little bit bigger bargain than usual, for it is an unusually handsome piece of furniture, but it is by no means the only bargain. We have a splendid assortment of Folding Beds of all descriptions; some we sell as low as $12.50.

Iron Beds, too, we pride ourselves in having a specially good stock of. Not the heavy, clumsy ones, smeared over with white paint to make them look like enamel, but dainty ones with slender posts and the finest kind of enamel, solid brass trimmings. Prices start at $3.85.

Credit. If it is inconvenient for you to pay cash, tell us to charge your purchase. We are always willing to do so. You can pay as you feel disposed.

The announcement of the publication in McClure's Magazine of Chas. A. Dana's Reminiscences has attracted wide attention and has been commented upon very extensively. We have had many private letters referring to the historical value of these reminiscences and numerous notices in the press have spoken of their unique value.

Dana's Historical Legacy

These papers contain his mature judgment on these three great actors in the struggle - Lincoln, Stanton and Grant. - Philadelphia Record.

By all odds the most interesting contribution yet made to the now voluminous literature of the Civil War. - Scranton Tribune.

Make History Alive

These reminiscences are invaluable. . . . give those personal touches which make history alive. - Springfield Republican.

One of the most interesting contributions to the literature of our Civil War that has yet been made. - Knoxville Journal.

These few extracts out of hundreds of newspaper articles show most clearly how alive the public is to the importance of Mr. Dana's recollections of the scenes in which he played so prominent a part and of the men with whom he was so intimately associated.

The opening chapters are in the November McClure's, which is now on sale everywhere throughout the country.

VAUGHN CLASS CONCERT.

Successful Entertainment at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Judging from the attendance, the fund of the Vaughn Class Club that is maintained by that popular organization of Calvary Baptist Sunday school for the purpose of assisting needy young men, both spiritually and materially, was swelled to a gratifying degree through the medium of a concert given last evening in the beautiful assembly room of the Sunday school house. Every seat provided on the main floor and in the galleries was occupied, while quite a number stood throughout the evening. The audience was treated by a corps of young men in full dress, and wearing the colors of the class. The platform looked very attractive, being lined with palms and other potted plants.

The popular Madrigals contributed the opening number of the program, a medley of popular airs, and responded to an encore. A solo by Dudley Boy, who was sung by Mr. James Watson, the leader of the choir of Christ Church, Georgetown, in his usual fine style. There were readings and recitations by Miss I. Sidney Nesmith, Mrs. William Wood and Mr. James Henry Moser. Mr. Harry Wheaton Howard, one of Washington's talented young musicians, who has just returned from a three years' course of study in Europe, delighted his hearers with the rendition of a double number of the piano, one selection by Rubenstein and the other by Chopin, while equally cordially received was a cavatina by Bohm, on the violin, by Miss Jessica Cowling, who has spent five years in hard work and study at Leipzig. Mrs. Browning and Miss Claudia Moore sang acceptably, as did also Mr. Douglas G. Miller, the tenor of the First Congregational Church. The concert was brought to a close with a solo for cornet by Mr. Francis A. Swartwout. The success of the concert was in large measure due to the arrangements of a committee, consisting of Messrs. Frank Brown, Thomas E. White, B. W. Grafton, G. E. Hubbard and C. E. Davidson.

Mr. Thompson explained that for some time past a crowd of boys has been in the habit of greatly annoying the teachers of the school, the latest offense occurring yesterday. To put an end to the annoyances, he had two of them arrested. After lecturing the boys and before imposing the fines, Judge Kimball remarked that if the boys were not so large he would recommend that their parents administer to them a severe thrashing.

POTENT POWER FOR GOOD OF CHURCH

THE EXAMPLES CITED

"It is pleasant," said a prominent minister of this city today to a Star reporter, "to turn aside from reading of the charges of corruption, so freely bandied among politicians of every party, and learn, from the Star, as published last evening, that young people of every denomination are getting ready to come to the front in every movement that looks to the welfare of our nation."

The subject referred to has been commented upon with equal freedom by others, and the progress of the "work of the young" in denominations not represented in the former article in The Star has been outlined by leading churchmen.

An Example Cited

Rev. E. B. Bagby of the Ninth Street Christian Church said:

"The history of my church, the Ninth Street Christian, is an illustration of what the young people can do. Some of the younger members of the Vermont Avenue Church made a good start New Year day of 1888 by organizing a Sunday school in the basement of the church. The church had been closed for some time, and the Sunday school was the only place for club rooms, gymnasium, bicycle space for club rooms, and a library. Above this will be the auditorium for our Lord's day services."

"This year we recognize the trinity of man's being - the body, the next floor to the needs of the body, the next floor to the cultivation of the mind, while the auditorium of the soul. We shall endeavor to make this new church more than ever deserve the name given our congregation - the Young People's Church."

"I believe the most effective work that is being done at this time is that of work among the children. There the preacher finds the field most fertile for the reception of the gospel seed. Impressions made in childhood are the deepest and most lasting. The whole scene of childhood is consecrated to God. I, for one, am ready to second the motion of Froebel, 'Comp. let us live for the children.'"

In Protestant Episcopal Church.

Rev. Dr. Elliott, Church of the Ascension, said:

"I understand The Star to ask: Do the young people share in the greater interest and activity in religious matters which distinguish the present generation in this country?"

"The present generation is so distinguished by the testimony of so very competent witnesses, Mr. Carrington, Wright and Mr. James Boyce, in the 're' article, that I need not say more. Mr. Wright says the proportion of communicants to population is now about three times greater than in 1880, and that from 1880 to 1890, while the increase of population was about 25 per cent, the increase of communicants was 42 per cent. In the American commonwealth, Mr. Boyce says, 'the whole scene of childhood is consecrated to God. I, for one, am ready to second the motion of Froebel, 'Comp. let us live for the children.'"

"Now, the young people seem to have their full share in this activity and interest. They have indeed more than their proportionate share now, because they have dearest Society, Epworth League, Christian Union, Young Men's Christian Association, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and of Philip and Andrew, Daughters of the King, King's Daughters, these and other names stand for hosts enlisted for service and prayer of young people, and many of these have names about the beginning of the present decade."

"In the communion to which I belong the rapid growth of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and of the Daughters of the King attests strikingly the religious growth of the young, for in each case the order of spiritual in its aim and methods. In the case of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the act that the crowded convention was not one of business, but a continuous instruction, lasting for days in the religious life, and the convention of the Daughters of the King, to be held in the Epiphany next week is expected to move on the same high plane."

"The change for the better in young men during my lifetime is more than a reformation - it is a revolution."

Not New Among Catholics.

Rev. Dr. Stafford, spiritual director of Carroll Institute, said: "This movement for the young is by no means new among the Catholics."

"There have always been in the church a large number of societies, religious organizations, pious confraternities, social and literary guilds for the young people. There are no new orders to be accomplished to children, youths, young men and young women from the earliest ages. Immediately after their first communion and confession the boys and girls enter the Holy Angels' and Holy Innocents' Sodality. A little later on they are made members of the Sodality of St. Michael, and the girls of the Sodality of St. Ann."

"For the young men and young women there are sodalities of leagues of devotion. Some of these have an immense membership, and one of them, the League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, reaches 60,000 members."

"Many of these societies are adjuncts to the Sunday school work, others of the religious, papers, manual work, There are periodicals, papers, manual work and books circulated among them."

"In addition to these organizations already existing, there are many new ones being instituted for literary work and innocent enjoyment, as reading room and gymnasium, and in some cities, where there is a large Catholic population, such as Carroll Institute in this city, these local or parochial institutions are not at all necessary."

"Still further to be belated to these are the Catholic clubs, where the young men are the working force, but the old men are the directing power. Finally, there is the Sodality of Christian Fathers and the Sodality of Christian Mothers, the object of which is to foster and cultivate religious devotion in the family."

Those of Hebrew Faith.

Rabbi Stern of the Washington Hebrew congregation said: "In late years there has been noticeable a greatly increased desire on the part of the young people of our faith to study the Bible and Jewish history."

"It may be said that the impetus to the movement has been given through the efforts of Rev. Dr. Berkowitz of Philadelphia, who has organized a Jewish chautauque, at the request of the chautauque which was started some years ago by Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal Church."

"In our city the young Jewish people, as is known to the readers of The Star, have recently been organized into an association, but the main object of that for the present will be to assist in raising funds to pay for the new synagogue. I have, however, every reason to hope and believe that as soon as our financial emergency is passed, the members of the society will take up other lines of work."

"As soon as possible the society will have its Bible classes and classes for the study of Jewish history, and a Choral Society will also be organized. The latter is an absolute necessity, as it is our wish to use in our worship the union hymnal in conjunction with the union prayer book, one of the former of which many years of labor have been spent by Dr. Alois Kaiser of Baltimore, an eminent Hebrew scholar, and to do which, successfully, will require the efforts of many, more trained vocalists than we now have."

The Outlook Hopeful.

Vice Chancellor Beller of the American University expressed the opinion to a Star reporter that the outlook for the improvement of the condition of the masses in the United States through the agency of the young people who are engaged in church work was as hopeful as could be wished for, and concluding, said:

"There has been a wonderful movement among the young people of the Methodist Episcopal Church during recent years. It is an absolute necessity, as it is our wish to use in our worship the union hymnal in conjunction with the union prayer book, one of the former of which many years of labor have been spent by Dr. Alois Kaiser of Baltimore, an eminent Hebrew scholar, and to do which, successfully, will require the efforts of many, more trained vocalists than we now have."

"In 1891 these five societies were consolidated into one organization, known as the Epworth League. This year had also been in the M. E. Church some Christian Endeavor societies, but most of these have since become chapters of the Epworth League."

"This organization has grown so rapidly that it now numbers 1,500,000 members in the M. E. Church alone; the M. E. Church South has also an Epworth League, with a membership of about half a million, and the Epworth Leagues in the M. E. Church North have been of great service in Sunday school work, and have been very efficient in the revival services held annually in the different churches of the denomination."

"Recently the Epworth Leagues have been taking hold of practical lines of work, especially the missionary, the educational and hospital work of the denomination. The largest chapter of the league is at Ann Arbor, Mich., where from among the students of the university there are 800 members."

"Leagues in different parts of the country are raising funds for educational institutions, and have already contributed toward the American University in this city. As an outgrowth of the relation of the Epworth Leagues to educational work there is to be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., during Thanksgiving week a congress of those young people of the M. E. Church who are engaged in the educational work as specialists."

"Those who will compose the congress propose to discuss the relations of the church to special and original investigation of all recent movements in the world of higher education, and to inform themselves of the progress of the work of the church in this field. The congress will be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., during Thanksgiving week a congress of those young people of the M. E. Church who are engaged in the educational work as specialists."

"All this will certainly result in a better membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the next generation. They will be better trained intellectually and better equipped for the work of the church. They will not only be able to do more and better work, but they will be larger minded and broader minded in their views and sympathies."

UNIVERSITY NOTES

Columbia University.

The foot ball team, with Manager Nicol, left Wednesday night for a series of three games, one at Hampton, with Hampton A. C., at Richmond, with Richmond A. C., and at Newport News, with William and Mary College. One game, that with Hampton A. C., was lost by the score of 4-0, but the Columbians maintain that the decision of the referee, in allowing the one touchdown, was radically wrong, according to the rules of the game.

The Epworth League met last evening to discuss the question, 'Resolved, That the war of 1812 was justifiable.' Messrs. Stuart and Altschuler were on the affirmative side and Messrs. Beatty and Everett on the negative. The Bee was edited by Messrs. Beatty and Cutter, and the News was the critic of the evening.

The first issue of the Columbia Call will make its appearance on the 16th instant. A special class of the law school was called by President W. F. Kirk last evening and routine class business transacted.

The post-graduate class met last evening and elected officers. The question for debate in the Law School Debating Society this evening is 'Resolved, That the United States Senators should be elected by direct vote of the people.' Messrs. J. B. Lackey, F. L. Tarver, T. J. Wood, affirmative, and Messrs. J. B. Dahlgren, E. L. Way, C. C. Wyant, negative, being the speakers for the evening. Next Saturday the question, 'Resolved, That the positions should be held during life and good behavior.' W. M. Shuster, P. C. Handy and W. L. Adams will uphold the affirmative, while D. D. Green and C. C. Everett will be on the negative. At the public debate, to be held on the 20th of this month, the affirmative is to be resolved, 'That the Hawaiian Islands should be annexed to the United States.' I. O. H. Alward, T. P. Hoggood, P. M. Church, J. W. Alderson, and J. B. Ald will be the speakers.

Next Tuesday Professor Wiley will inaugurate a course of lectures, twenty in number, on agricultural chemistry, in the school of graduate studies. A society for the study of mushrooms has been organized under the name of the Mycological Club. Meetings are held every Monday afternoon.

Georgetown University.

Justice Brown has commenced a series of lectures on admiralty to the seniors and juniors of the law school. A meeting has been called for this evening, the purpose being the organization of the Epworth League of the city.

"Resolved, That the government should have control of the press." is the subject for discussion by Messrs. E. Byrne and S. J. Kernan on the affirmative and Messrs. T. W. Cashman and J. P. B. Duffy on the negative, at the next meeting of the Philomathean Society.

Following are the officers elected by the freshmen class of the medical school: President, Otto L. Wellenreiter; vice president, Otto L. Wellenreiter; secretary, Robert L. Webster, Michigan; treasurer, Robert L. Webster, Michigan; executive committee, J. L. Underwood, Tennessee, chairman; George W. Brown, Virginia; secretary, F. A. Reynolds, treasurer, F. A. Reynolds, treasurer.

National University.

At a meeting of the post-graduate class, held Monday evening, the following officers were elected: President, C. K. Allen of the District of Columbia; vice president, N. E. Webster, Michigan; secretary, Robert L. Webster, Michigan; treasurer, W. M. King, Virginia; executive committee, J. L. Underwood, Tennessee, chairman; George W. Brown, Virginia; secretary, F. A. Reynolds, treasurer, F. A. Reynolds, treasurer.

The debate selected for this evening is as follows: "Resolved, That the duty of the American citizen to support regular or independent political parties, instead of independent movements." Affirmative - Messrs. Brown, Cullen and O'Neill. Negative - Van Steed of Missouri has been chosen president.

The dramatic society will give its first entertainment of the season on December 20, when the opera, "Pirates of Penzance,"

EXTENDED TO THE END OF THE YEAR.

Asked For One Month's Extension, Doctor McCoy Gives Two.

All Who Apply Before Jan. 1, 1898, for the Treatment That Has Become a Blessing to Our Time, May Be Treated at $3 Per Month Until Cured.

The attendance at the offices of Doctors McCoy and Cowden in October doubled even that of September, and at the close of the month came again the inevitable outpouring and a flood tide and flood pressure of belated importunate that brought a second emergency, when "Something must be done."

Place another month's extension came from everywhere, in letters from patients in all parts of the country who could not reach the office, in letters from people throughout the country desiring to be treated by correspondence, in personal visitation of friends who wanted to bring their friends or relatives.

Such was the pressure of work incident to the close of the $3 period that during Saturday and Sunday, the 26th and 27th, not so much as time for preparing or publicly announcing the extension could be spared. It was an unprecedented occurrence in this practice. It was the first time in its history that it was absolutely impossible to prepare or make the usual announcements in the public prints.

In response to personal requests to extend the rate Doctor McCoy said: "I will do better than your request. You ask for one month, and I will give two. I will extend the $3 rate until the end of the year. It cannot be said then that there is not abundant time."

Astonished himself by the situation, he felt that a second extension of one month would seem like a purely business matter. He could not make the concession gradually, sparingly or pennywise. He could not deal out benevolence as we deal out tobacco or calico, by penny weight or inch measure.

MOTHER AND SON BOTH CURED.

THE SON CURED OF GASTRIC CATARRH. THE MOTHER CURED OF ASTHMA.

Mrs. Eliza A. Davis, Little Falls, N.Y. "I had my first attack of asthma years ago. After that it did not trouble me again seriously until about two years ago. That fall it came on again, and as the weather grew colder it grew steadily worse."

"The shortness of breath increased, and there was a constant feeling of pressure about my chest, just as if there was a heavy weight upon it. The attack never came on during the day, but at night, an hour or two after I had retired, I would wake to find myself gasping for breath."

"There would be no more rest that night, for when the attacks were on sleep was impossible. I could not even lie down, but would have to sit up either in a chair or propped up in bed. Night after night I have spent in this fashion, until I was almost exhausted."

"The cough troubled me greatly, for it was such an effort to raise the tough mucus that filled my lungs."

"What sent me to Doctors McCoy and Cowden was the cure they had made in my son's case, and seeing the published statement of Mrs. Jenny Smith of 606 6th Street Southwest."

She had been cured of Asthma; why should not I be cured also?"

"Before I began treatment, if I did very much about the house, I was sure to have an attack that night. Now I can do a good day's work and not have an attack. My cough has stopped and I breathe perfectly."

Howard University. "The History of Education and Pedagogy," is the subject of a course of lectures now being delivered by Prof. Moore. One occurs every Monday, and much interest seems to be taken by the students. The Christian Endeavor Society meets tonight to discuss the topic "Our Work."

General O. O. Howard, United States army, retired, delivered a lecture to the students last week. His subject being "Sherman's March Through Georgia." Much enthusiasm was manifested on the part of the students and others of the audience. Last Sunday he again spoke at the services in the evening. Gen. Howard is a friend of the president, Dr. Rankin, and one of the founders of the university.

The first case in the Moot Court was read by Mr. H. B. Berkman, Catholic University. The regular fall course of public lectures will be commenced next Thursday, when Mr. Hattie Taylor, ex-minister to Madrid, will deliver the opening address for the term.
